According to the documents received for FOIA 2018-APHIS-04840-F, there were communications between APHIS and the individuals listed in the new FOIA request that helped to determine what, and what would not, be regulated under the federal Animal Welfare Act. I'm trying to access those communications (which I assume are emails or snail mail, but I don't know for sure) to understand why some individuals buying dogs at auctions and then reselling them as rescued are now being regulated while other individuals doing business the same exact way are not being regulated. The names listed in the new FOIA 2019-APHIS-06199-F are doing a high volume of business, but have been told they don't require license while others conducting the same type of business were required to be licensed. Please provide the emails, memos and letters between these individuals and APHIS that led APHIS to determine that licensing was not required.
